AERIAL WAR ACT FOR THE DOTHAN FAIR

Frank Champion, an aviator, will make flights twice daily during the fair next week, starting Monday, and he will do aerial war stunts, such as dropping bombs upon the city. Horrors! Negotiations have been pending for some time with the Young Aeroplane Company to furnish this act, and now the final arrangements have been completed.

Fine Act.

The aeroplane act is heralded as one that is thrilling and one that will no doubt prove a good drawing card with the public. Champion is said to be an experienced aviator, whose work is usually commended.

Arrangements for the holding of the fair are progressing nicely and the occasion promises to be a success in every way. The exhibits of agriculture, live stock, articles from the schools, etc., will in all likelihood be better than they were last year.

FRENCH FRONT IN DARDANELLES QUIET

Paris, Oct. 17.—There has been little activity on the French front in the Dardanelles the past fortnight, the French war office announced today. The statement reads:

"In the Dardanelles the first two weeks of October have been calm. Attempts by the Turks to reach our trenches with mines were defeated by the explosion of counter mines. The Turkish artillery has been active, but not effective, thanks to the superiority of our own batteries.

"Our aviators have daily bombarded with success various establishments and camps of the enemy."

NAVAL TARGET PRACTICE.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 17.—The battleships New York, New Hampshire, Louisiana, Rhode Island and Minnesota went to sea today to engage in target practice off the Virginia capes.

BOY SLAPPED BY DRUMMER

Charged with slapping a young son of J. H. Brown, who was selling papers Sunday, F. H. Bonelli, a drummer, who registered at the Newsom Hotel, was placed under arrest by Chief of Police C. J. Rollins, but was released upon making bond.

Upon hearing that his boy had been slapped by a drummer, it is understood that Mr. Brown started out to look up the individual, but was restrained by friends. In the meantime the police had arrested Bonelli.

It is understood that the boy was endeavoring to attract the notice of the drummer to sell him a paper, when Bonelli, who was writing a letter to his sick wife, slapped the youngster. It is reported that he apologized to Mr. Brown, saying he was worrying over his wife's illness, and that he struck the boy in a fit of anger, and was sorry he did it.

The case is set for trial in mayor's court Tuesday.

RUSSIANS SURPRISE ATTACK IS REPULSED

Constantinople, Oct. 17.—The following Turkish war office statement was issued today:

"On the Caucasian front we repulsed a Russian surprise attack upon our position in the region west of Kentek, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

"On the Dardanelles front there have been only local fights. One of our mines destroyed an enemy blockhouse near Suddul-Bahr, in the region of Reeves Dere."

SILVER CUP BOUGHT

The silver loving cup to be awarded the member of the Southeast Alabama Poultry and Pet Stock Association showing the prize pen of poultry at the Dothan Fair was purchased Saturday and is on display in the windows of a local jewelry company. The cup is a handsome trophy.

A. M. CLENNY DEAD.

A. M. Clenny, 23, who for several years has been in the employ of the Southern Express Company here as an express messenger, died Saturday night at 11:40 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Raelley, North Appletree street, where he roomed. The body was sent to Abbeville, for funeral and burial. He is survived by his widow and one child.

TRASH CANS AGAIN.

Only a few days ago The Eagle carried a complaint from some of the ladies that the garbage wagons never called any more for the trash in the residence sections of the city. If those cans are not emptied, they might as well be empty. It is just as important that the premises around home be kept sanitary and neat as it is the down sections, and the street committee should see that this is done. If the town authorities do not cooperate to that extent, there is no remedy except dump this refuse in the middle of the streets.

Small Crowds At Magic City Shows

Birmingham News Asks Who Is Killing Theatre in That City—Attendance Not Good.

That the outlook for the approaching theatrical season in Birmingham is decidedly gloomy, in view of a small-sized crowd at a stellar attraction there recently, is pointed out in an interesting article in The Sunday Birmingham News.

The News wants to know who is killing the theatre in that city and candidly admits that Birmingham cannot even see big Keith vaudeville, a privilege enjoyed by Atlanta.

There is no doubt a combination of reasons which explains the lack of attendance in Birmingham, and some of them may be local in their nature. Yet it is interesting to note that Birmingham is a regular hot bed of moving picture theatres and that these movie houses apparently make money. This is a partial answer to The News query. Then another answer is the present money stringency in some sections and the high prices charged to see the shows.

Another point is this: possibly metropolitan Birmingham has not learned to read rightly the advance songs of the press agents and pick out the best shows to attend and let the inferior ones alone. A patron of the theatre hates to pay $1.50 or $2.50 for a seat in an opera house to witness a very indifferent performance and notwithstanding the fact that Barnum said Americans like to be humbugged, in this day and time Americans are becoming better guardians of their rolls.

The Birmingham News in part says:

"Who is Killing the Theatre in Your Town?" is the title of an article in a recent issue of a leading magazine. Lovers of the theatre in Birmingham would do well to apply this question to themselves. Something apparently is putting a blight on the theatre in Birmingham, though the season of big productions at the Jefferson Theatre is not yet two weeks old.

Within four days Birmingham audiences were given opportunities to see plays by Shaw, Pinero and two musical comedies, one of the latter with the most beautiful music Victor Herbert has written in years. This is a wide range of attractions, and the most exciting should have been able to find something in one of the five plays presented.

Good companies presented these attractions, but what was the result? The audiences at the Jefferson Theatre were so small it was pitiable. Not only were the plays above the average, but one of the greatest actresses England has ever produced, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, played before audiences that would have been considered only fair at the ordinary attraction."

Mr. Killmaworth of Fort Gaines, Ga., was in Dothan Sunday.

NEGRO GUN PLAY

A negro whose name the Sheriff's office did not have, was shot and killed at Malvern Saturday night by George Robertson, another negro, who has not been apprehended. The particulars of the shooting are not known here.

Murvin Gissendanner, negro, shot a negro woman in Dale county yesterday, and she may not live. Officers of Dale county are trying to catch Gissendanner, and asked the assistance of the Sheriff's force here.

Alex Johnson, negro, caught George Wilson, negro, in a cane patch belonging to a white man, and opened fire, inflicting painful but not serious injuries. The negro dropped his hat and two stalks of cane and ran. This fracas took place about ten miles south of town. Johnson was arrested and placed in jail.

In a difficulty at Ashford Friday morning David Shackleford, negro, shot another negro in the back.

It is also reported that a negro was killed at Waterford this morning.

WOMAN WEAK, RUN DOWN.

Finds Health in a Simple Tonic.

People in Dothan will begin to believe us when we say that our delicious Vinol is a wonderful tonic and strength creator.

Here is another case where it has proved its wonderful power to overcome weak, run-down, nervous, anemic conditions.

"I was run-down, nervous and could not do my work without being entirely exhausted, and would often faint without any apparent cause. The doctor said I was anemic but failed to help me. My husband brought home a bottle of Vinol and I began to improve after taking one bottle, and after taking four bottles it has built me up so I can do all my housework without help. I recommend Vinol to a neighbor who says her doctor approves of it and said 'Vinol is a wonderfully good tonic.' Mrs. Bessie Herling, West Philadelphia, Pa.

We recommend Vinol to our customers as the greatest strength creator we know—due to the extractive medical elements of fresh cod livers, with out oil combined with peptonate of iron and beef peptone, all dissolved in a pure medical wine.

Contractor Brown's son was injured, he sustaining a dislocated shoulder and a broken collar bone. One of the negroes in the car was killed outright, and another is not expected to live. The third negro escaped unhurt.

Mr. Brown's son has been sent to Montgomery, the home of Mr. Brown, for medical treatment.

HOLINESS MEET DRAWS CROWDS

Divine Healing Advocated—Doctors Urged Not to be Un-Easy as so Few Will Have Faith.

Rev. E. N. Bell, of St. Louis, Mo., preaching at the Holiness tabernacle in the western part of the city Sunday afternoon delivered a divine healing sermon. Aside from his remarks on divine healing, the sermon might have passed off from the average Protestant pulpit without attracting much interest.

In a most sarcastic manner Mr. Bell urged doctors not to worry, and said that he felt like giving a little "soothing syrup" as there would be so few people who had the necessary faith that the physicians work would not be hampered much. The Devil he said, always had the biggest part of the world. Consequently, should there be a physician in the congregation, the speaker implored him not to become uneasy.

Two Illustrations.

The preacher gave two illustrations of the power of divine healing and out of each he painted a graphic word picture. First the speaker told how he was stricken with pneumonia in Chicago, and sent to the hospital where the best physicians in the city gave the case up as hopeless and after he recovered, the speaker said he remembered the favor with which a Presbyterian minister prayed and urged the others to pray. The speaker, after declaring death had already set in, attributed his recovery to a higher power than medicine and surgery.

The second account was that of a boy in Iowa who had his collar bone broken, this affliction causing one of the boy's arms to hang limp at his side. The doctors said he must have medical aid at once. To the contrary healing services were called for the younger fellow, and his father asked him how he felt. He said he did not hurt any more. But still the father was skeptical. In three days, however, the boy was carrying potatoes in the disabled arm and doing other chores.

Visitors Here.

The Holiness services started Saturday night and will continue for a week more. Sunday was the big day but the crowds during the week will in all probability be large. There are quite a number of visitors in the city, members of the cult having come from various towns and rural districts in the state to attend this, the annual camp meeting.

Two tents have been erected near the tabernacle, one of which is used as a dining tent the other for sleeping quarters.

Messrs. Holt and Carl Simon-ton and mother, and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Jordan motored to Abbeville and back Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Frank Weston of Ft. Gaines, Ga., was the guest Sunday of his sister, Miss Florence Weston.

DOC DON JUAN GETS $10 FOR SHAKING HANDS

Progressive conversation was the game chosen for the entertainment of the guests at Mayor Joe Baker's public party this morning. Chief of Police Rollins, ably assisted by Policemen Hart and Daugherty, received the guests.

A Big One from Newton.

Doc Crawley, colored, appeared in the role of Doc Don Juan, and when it comes to the "ladies," the mayor, policemen and spectators had to hand it to Doc.

In the old days of castles and silver slippers, and one thing and another, woosers said their little say under windows with flowers growing all around and around, and while all this may have been all right in its day, Doc Crawley has it beat all to pieces in the wowing line.

So ardent a wooer was Doc that he almost broke up a negro Holiness meeting in Frogtown yesterday by taking part in the festivities while one of the "ladies" was testifying. Doc did not want to testify, but he wanted to hold the chocolate one's hand. If the evidence is true Doc Don Juan shook hands liberally with several women, much to the consternation of the preacher.

Doc's friendliness cost him $10 in mayor's court today. He told the mayor that he lived at Newton and that he came to Dothan to see old friends and renew old acquaintances.

Peace Disturbers.

The peace disturbers in limbo today were too numerous to mention. A husky looking tall black or a low chunky light brown would come forward:

"You are charged with disturbing the peace. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty, sah!"

"$10.00."

And so on.

THE PASSPORT

When the white cerements wrap
this clay of mine,
When on my couch I lie
And give last audience, with closed ear and eye,
Be such as may to me their steps
incline;
Nor met by any grief my pallid splendor.
The world is for the living. Go your way.
I ask not your tears nor hold

O friend, if one there be whom
I befriended.
If there was one kind word,
one selfless deed,
One cup of water to young lips

Heaven's portal I'll approach,
with that displayed,
Humble but unafraid.

The Woman's Problem

By Charles D. Williams, LL. D., in Good Housekeeping.

Once upon a time, so an ancient story runs, two sisters were to entertain a famous guest, a great preacher and teacher.
Martha hustled about, sweeping, dusting, and setting out her finest linen, napery and silver.
And then she got up the most elaborate course-dinner she knew how. For this was her way of doing honor to her guest and showing her love and loyalty.

Mary went about drowsing and dreaming. And when the guest came, she sat at his feet and listened to his discourse on high themes.

When Martha complained of her sister's neglect of household duties, the Teacher replied:
"Martha, Martha, thou art careful about many things. But one thing is needful, and Mary has chosen that good part, which shall not be taken from her."

I confess to a sneaking sympathy with Martha. It is natural to "a mere man." Yet the Teacher's reply strikes at the solution of the eternal "Woman's Problem": "plain living and high thinking," the simplifying of the material in order to give more attention to the intellectual and spiritual.

Martha was perhaps the original anti-suffragist. She believed in "woman's sphere" and in woman confining herself to her sphere. She was a famous housekeeper, but I doubt if she was a good house-maker. I don't believe that Lazarus was allowed to smoke in the parlor or Mary to litter up the library with books and periodicals.

Mary was doubtless a suffragist, if not a suffragette. She was a member of all the women's clubs, literary, political, and social. She was a devout worshiper and an ardent church-worker.
But if the housekeeping had been left to her, things would have gone at sixes and sevens.

These are the conditions of the problem. "One thing is necessary." Home-making is woman's special vocation. And that means housekeeping and requires attention to material details. On the other side, particularly today, are enlarging opportunities for culture and increasing demands of public interest and service outside the home. To reconcile these conditions is the difficult solution of the modern woman's problem. To be a real homemaker and not simply a famous housekeeper, to keep the hearth-fire burning cheerily and yet not neglect culture or even public duty and social service, to "serve tables" duly and yet give full heed to "the Word of God to prayer"—this is the fine art of woman's life today.

Clearing.

Sheridan was once staying at lady in the country, who wanted more of his company than he was willing to give, relates the New York Post. She proposed one day to take a stroll with him and he excused himself to her on ac-weather. Shortly afterwards she caught him sneaking out to enjoy a walk alone.

"So, Mr. Sheridan," she said,
"it has cleared up?"
"Just a little, madam," Sheridan assented hurriedly, "enough for one, but not enough for two."

America's Most Valuable Coffee Trade Mark

While other trade marks merely represent firm names and insignia, this trade mark of the French Market is the identifying mark of the famous old secret coffee blend of the old New Orleans French Market of 160 years ago.

In those days this was already the best known coffee blend in America, if not in the world. The blend itself was a jealously guarded secret. Such men as Andrew Jackson and Henry Clay are said to have sipped this identical coffee with the keenest delight.

In later days more modern celebrities
like Eugene Field, Mark Twain, Joseph Jefferson, Catherine Cule made the old French Market their rendezvous.

A New Genius.

A famous botanist, whose experience is told by Answers, found a plant that he did not know. At that moment a shock-headed lad strolled along the road and stopped to gaze open-mouthed at him.

"I say!" called the botanist.
"See that plant there—that pale pink one in the corner? Do you know it?"

"Uh-huh!" said the country
boy briefly.

"What's its name? Do you know what family it belongs to?"

The lad, jerking a grubby thumb over his shoulder toward a little cottage, said tersely,
"Tigginses!"
